PROJECTS

• IoT-Enabled Voice Mobility System

Built an Arduino-based voice-controlled car that responds to user commands via a mobile application.

- Designed the voice control interface using MIT App Inventor, enabling communication through Bluetooth.
- Integrated hardware components including DC motors, motor driver module (L298N), and Arduino Uno for movement control.
- Implemented features for obstacle-free navigation and real-time command processing.

• Digital Clock implementation

Designed and implemented a fully functional 24-hour digital clock on PCB.

- Used 555 timer for clock pulses, 7490 decade counters for time counting, and basic logic gates for sequencing.
- Incorporated 7-segment displays to show hours, minutes, and seconds.
- Achieved accurate real-time timekeeping through complete hardware design.
